MARKS IMPORTANT PHASE IN RAILROAD MANOEUVRING

Authoritative Statement of Present Status and Probable Scope of New Deepwater-Tidewater System.

Scope of New Deepwar.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, August 25.—An authoritative statement of the present status and probable scope of what is known as the Deepwater-Tidewater system of rallways, destined to connect the Great Lakes and the Virginia Seaboard by way of the coal regions of West Virginia, is made in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record in special correspondence from Charleston, W. Va. Significant facts about the undertaking are that it is being built for its entire length of about 500 miles, with a total dift of 1,000 feet and a maximum ruling gradient of 25 feet, in the primary purpose of bringing vast coal fields into touch with ocean transportation, that though costing something like $36,00,000, not a single security has been offered to the public, and that its con-$36,00,000, not a single security has conferred to the public, and that its construction and operation may possibly be an important phase in railroad manocurerings affecting widely separated portions of the country. On these points the correspondence says:

Novel Enterprise.

"Nothing ever undertaken in the way of railroad construction is more novel or unique in its methods, and in its his-tory, or more 'loaded'. with possible ef-fects on the development of a section, College of Physicians and Surgeons

OF BALTIMORE, MARYLAND.

New building: prodern equipment; unsurprassed laboratories large and independent Lyingen Asylum for practical Obstetries; department Chingen of the practical Obstetries; department of the practical Obstetries; all told. But that short trunk line will be considered to the practical obstetries of the best best of the practical obstetries obstetries of the practical obstetries o miles, all told. But that short trunk line will go through the heart of the best coking and steam coal fields of West Virginia—a field nowhere surpassed in richness on the globe, and it will be built to such grade and provided with such equipment as will enable it to haul coal to either lake or tidewater at a cheaper sale, then is nogsible by any existing line. equipment as will enable it to haul coal to either lake or tidewater at a cheaper rate than is possible by any existing line. "Then 'the enterprise is novel and unique, in that for the first time in this country, at least, it is being built as a whole, from the starting point to destination, without any reference to the lecal business of interior points. This is the first tidewater road to be built from the West to the East, and it is the first trunk line to be constructed with cash in hand, without one dollar's worth of stock or bonds over having been offered to the public. It will be the first realization of an old, old dream for a railroad through the West Virginia coal fields from the Lakes to the sea, and it will be along the only possible route loft unoccupied. When it is built, it will stand forth Minerva-like, complete and perfect, and there will not be a mile of track or a dollar's worth of equipment that will not represent the very highest standards known to the railroad world of to-day.

venience and the use of the latest devices and the most modern machinery, no ter-minals in the world will surpass them. "The work under construction will cost about $36,000,000. With the line to the about $36,000,000. With the line to the lakes the entire enterprise, including everything except rolling stock and the lake terminals, will cost some $50,000,000. And yet the companies doing this enormous work are capitalized at only $175,000, and have paid every bill without asking the within.

Game Not Finished.

Bearing upon the possibilities the road furnishes for a consummation of Gould plans in West Virginia, the correspondence says:
"Just now there is much public com-

"Just now there is much public comment as to the significance of the presence in West Virginia of Mr. J. M. Schoonmaker, president of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie road, and a man close to the counsels of the Vanderbilts. It is even positively declared in press dispatches that the New York Central linear and Pennsylvania interests have wrested from Gould the group of properties taken over by the Gould-Ramsey syndicate two or three years ago, generally described as the Little Kanawha properties. There are some facts connected with the formation and composition of that syndicate, however, which make these reports seem at least a triffe premature. As a matter of fact the option given by Joseph Ramsey to the New York Central and associate least a trifle premature. As a manage to the New York Central and associate has not yet been taken up, and it remains to be seen whether it ever can be. The great chess game between the Fennylania and Gould would hardly seem to have been half finished. That the Deep water-Tidewater road will be a Gould ally, if it does not become a part of his system of roads, would by no means seem to be an unreasonable assumption. If this is true, it will strengthen his position concomously, not only by putting in his hands one of the best coal roads ever constructed into the heart of the Kanawha and the New River-Pocahontas coal constructed into the heart of the Kanawha and the New River-Pocahontas coal fields, but by opening up the possibilities of connections and extensions which will give him everything he wants in the way of access to the Pittsburg coals of West Virginia, as well as lines from West Virginia into the city of Pittsburg and to the lakes."
